STATE OF IT SERVICES

THEMES AND OUTLIERS

Tight client spending, leading to slow growth

- Q4 is expected to have been sluggish, mirroring the trends of the last couple of quarters. Also, the US economy has been steady with no major ups or downs, as judged by S&P 500 companies' earnings/outlook.
- BFSI and E&U are the only ones improving somewhat but nothing meaningful to yet translate to Indian IT earnings
- Clients are holding back spending, perhaps anticipating lower interest rates. Hence, TCV growth may have been slower this quarter although given the low conversion in FY24 (and therefore larger order backlog), this will not impact near-term growth expectations
- Management commentary for FY25 is expected to be moderate.
- Cross-currency tailwinds of ~35bps in Q4, leading to higher reported dollar

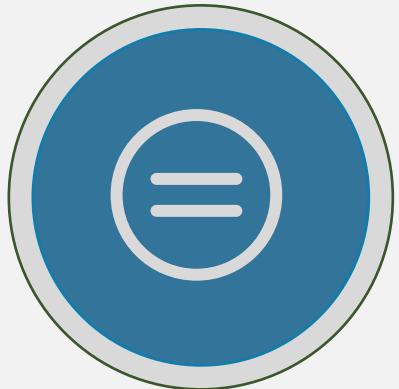

Mid- and small-caps continue to outperform larger peers

- Tier1 to report largely flattish growth (similar to Q3). TCS and HCLT doing better than the rest sequentially. Infosys and Wipro to be slow while TechM and LTIM (lack of pass-through) may report declines
- TCS growth to be aided by the BSNL deal in Q4. The company has announced many large deals, likely to cross $10bn in TCV
- Growth for mid-sized and small companies continue to hold up, with LTTS, Persistent and LatentView likely to report industry-leading growth of respectively 6.3%, 4.4%, 3.4%. KPIT (up 3.3%), Coforge (up 3.1%), Mphasis (up 2.5%), FSL (up 2.9%), and Mastek (up 2.7%) also not far behind from leaders. Zensar on steady recovery in Q4 (up 1.5%).
- On the other end, HappiestMinds may see muted growth continuing in Q4. Sonata and TELX may also have been weak.

Median margins to inch up q/q on seasonality, steady over the last one year

- Companies have been holding on to margins for the last several quarters with the Q4 median likely to be 15.7%, (last four-quarter average: 15.8%). TCS and Wipro within large caps are likely to have improved margins and, within smaller names, LatentView is likely to have expanded them

BFSI AND HI-TECH SEE STRONG DEAL AWARDS

BFSI recovery delayed, outlook not negative

- BFSI has been slow for Indian IT for the last few quarters despite large US banks continuing to do well. Hopes of recovery are tied to a more supportive interest-rate environment
- Within companies, TCS expects BFSI bottoming out in Q3 while LTIM and Mphasis expect some recovery in Services in Q4 (from a low Q3). Coforge is also likely to report strong deal wins

Hi-Tech deal awards on the rise

- Hi-Tech has seen increase in deal award activity in Q4, which should help improve growth in H1 FY25. Clients continue to do well with a few exceptions. Professional services is on the weaker side

Manufacturing and E&U steady

- Manufacturing is supporting growth in the near term, although it may not accelerate ahead. E&U is also steady

LOOKING AHEAD

Valuations still holding up in anticipation of acceleration

- From the previous quarter, no growth acceleration or deceleration seen in S&P 500 sectoral components. So, trading multiples for Indian IT are likely to hold at current levels
- Budgets are likely to be flattish but FY25 is starting on a better note from a growth standpoint: larger order backlog, steady (to potentially declining) interest-rate environment, and expectations of fewer deal cancellations ahead. Despite these, delayed recovery expectations are leading to a ~2% estimate cut
- The median IT sector FY26e PE is now 24x (unchanged from Q3), with FY25e PE at 28x (unchanged). In comparison, the Nifty-50 is trading at 18x FY26e PE.
- Top picks: PSYS, Cyient, Mastek

Key Q4 estimates and a Preference Ladder

PSYS

- While growth has slowed down over the last year, the relative outperformance to the sector stays. TCV growth is healthy, with book-to-bill of 1.6x LTM
- Margins expected to expand ~200bps in the next 2 years
- The stock trades at 32x FY26e; it generated 70% returns over the last 12 months

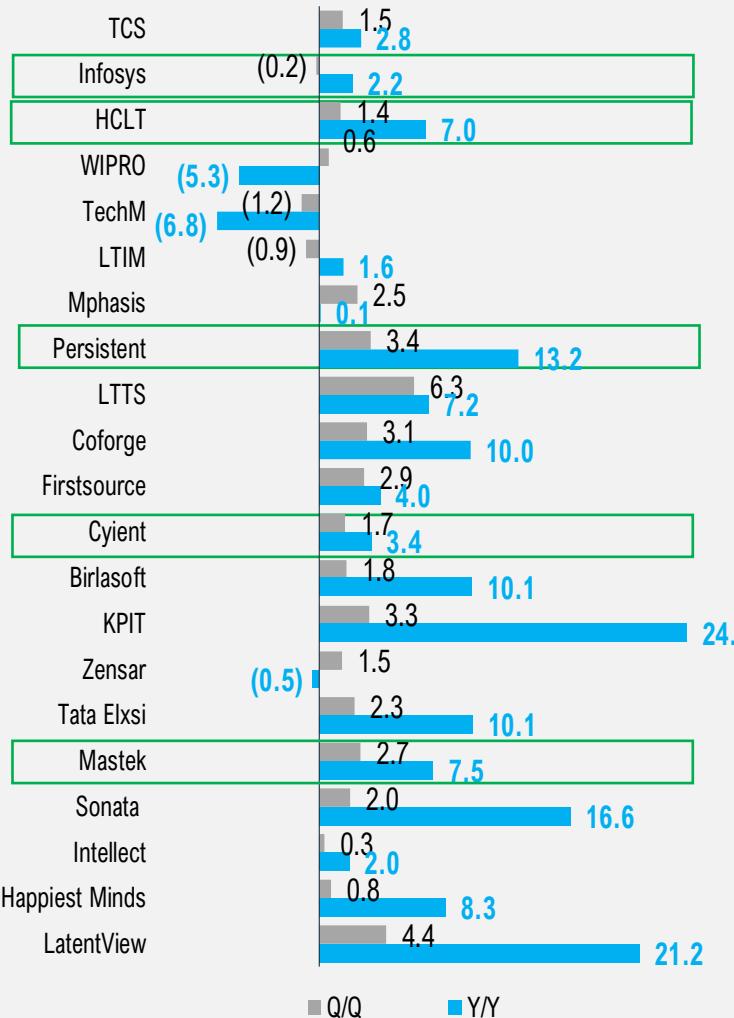

Cyient

- Deal wins in Q4 from Airbus and Deutsche Aircraft to help maintain DET growth in Aero for FY25. Has suffered in the Communications vertical in FY24, likely to be steady ahead
- DET has improved margins and cash generation in FY24, matching LTTS. If the FY25 growth-gap shrinks, there is a chance of narrowing the valuation gap as well
- The stock now trades at 25x FY26e, a ~27% discount to LTTS. Cyient has generated 96% returns over the last 12 months

Mastek

- Order backlog has grown sharply over the last 2 quarters, driving up FY25 expectations. Also, FY24 growth strong compared to the industry.
- UK government is the largest segment and is doing well. US growth recovery to improve company level margins.
- On track to reach $500m revenue by FY26. By then, diversification will lead to lower volatility and valuation convergence to midcap IT. Mastek has generated 67% returns over the last 12 months

Productivity improvements driven by higher utilisation

Quarterly revenue was maintained at $12,000-14,000 per employee for most in Q3 FY24. The slight increase we see here is on account of higher utilisation levels

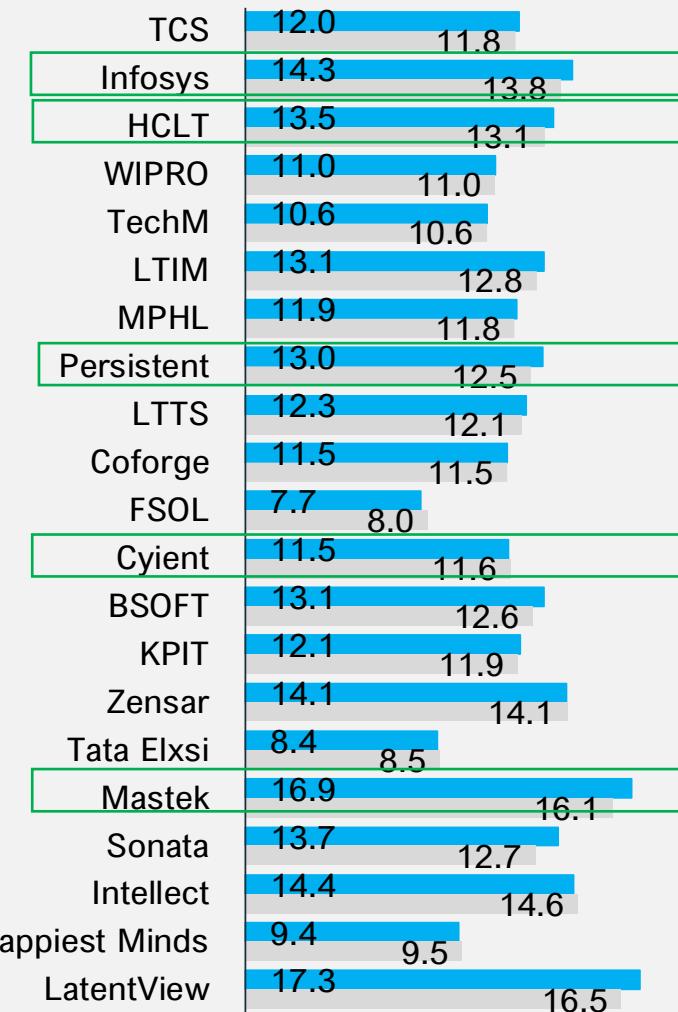

TechM operating below normal. TechM's renewed focus on the US and Enterprise sectors is expected to improve pricing. However, compared to expectations recovery has been delayed. Revenue curtailment is yet to reflect in the productivity.

FSOL's reduction is due to greater offshoring

Zensar does not lag peers in productivity

Mastek and Sonata benefited from acquisitions

Industry utilisation is at its highest of several quarters

Most of the companies close to three-year high utilisation

Industry-level utilisation at ~83% (in Q3 FY24), an all-time high. The higher utilisation rates are expected to lead to hiring, providing companies with opportunities for pyramid correction as growth resumes

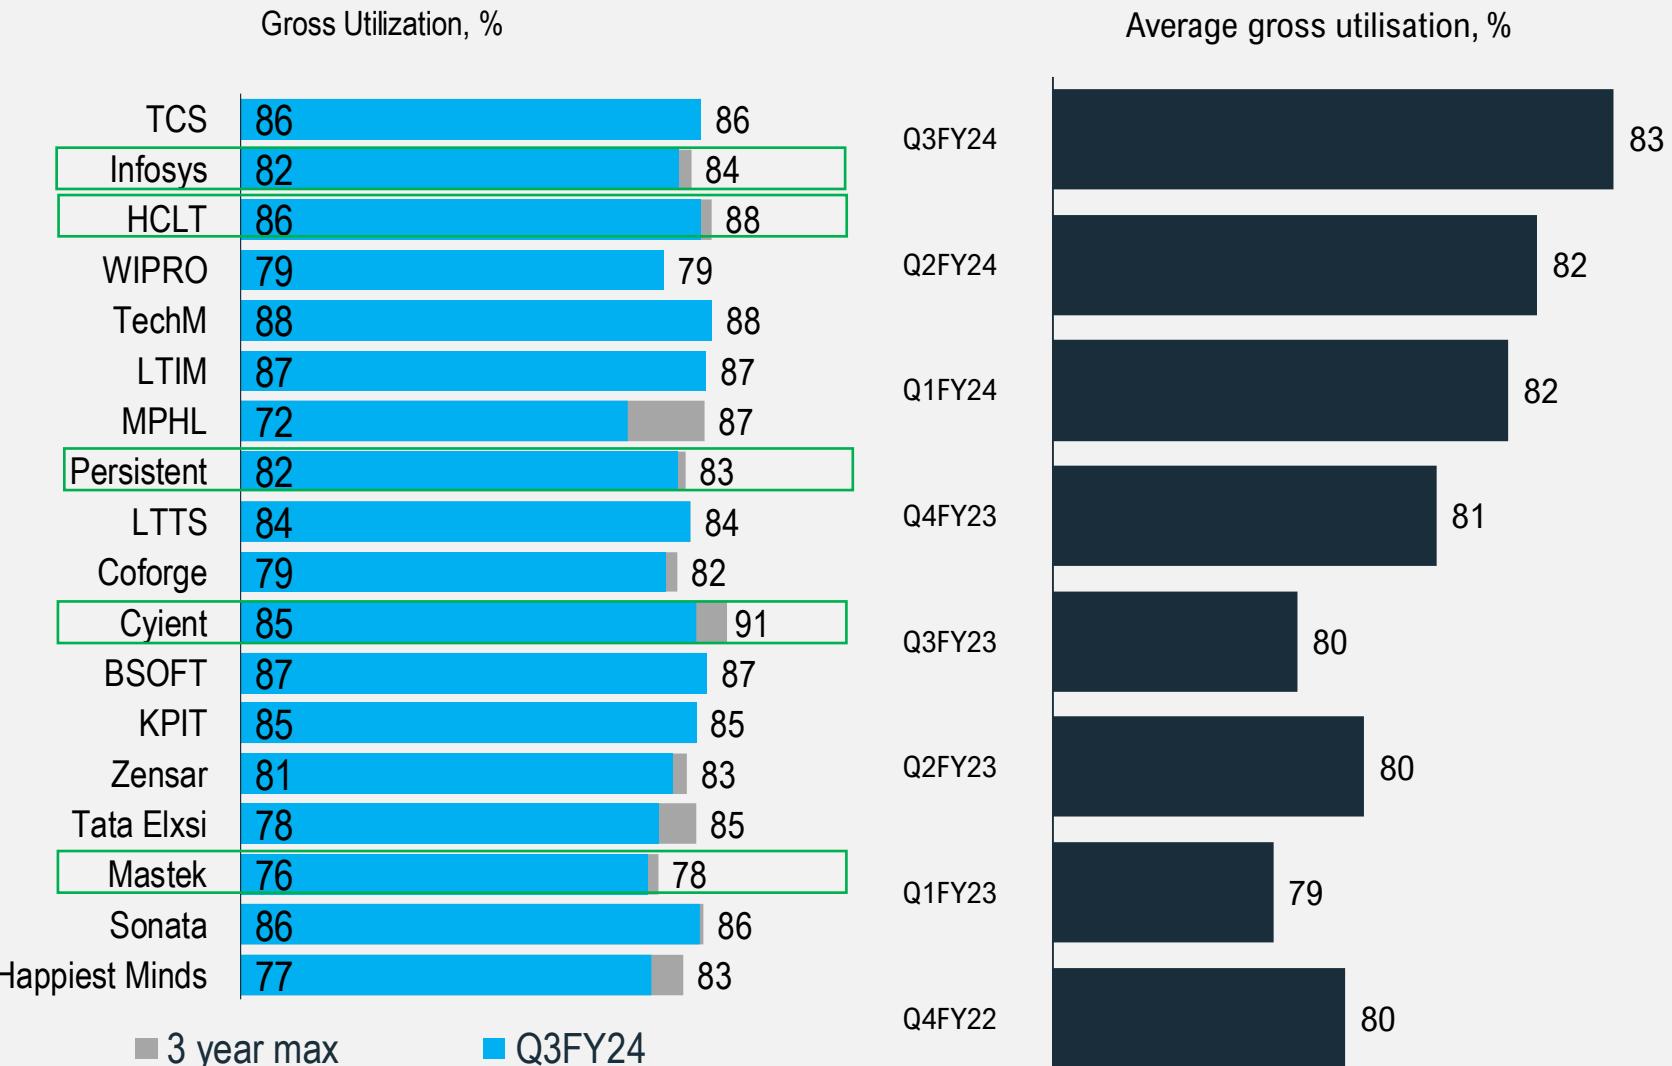

Example: TCS has opened a fresher-intake programme in April. JobSpeak index recorded its highest level in Feb24 after March 23.

Infosys and Wipro can use utilisation as a margin lever

Managements have spoken about increasing utilization in the near term.

Mphasis, Coforge, Zensar, TELX, Mastek, and Happiest have room to improve

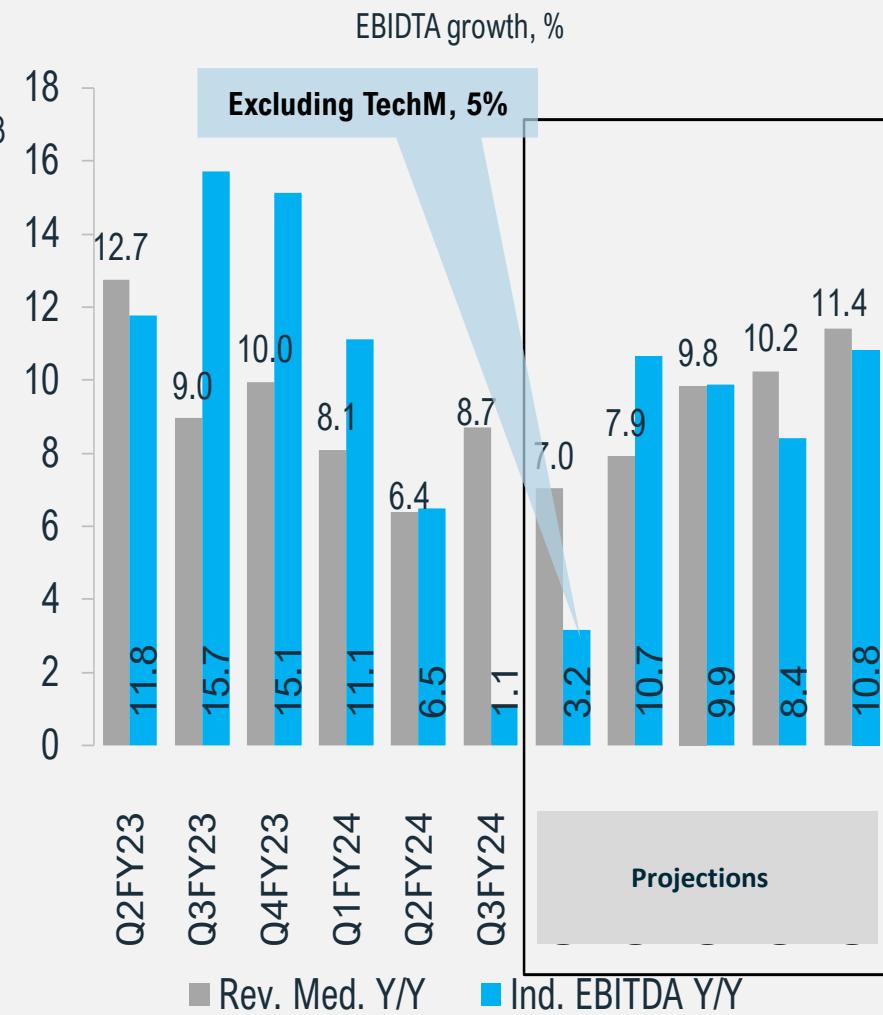

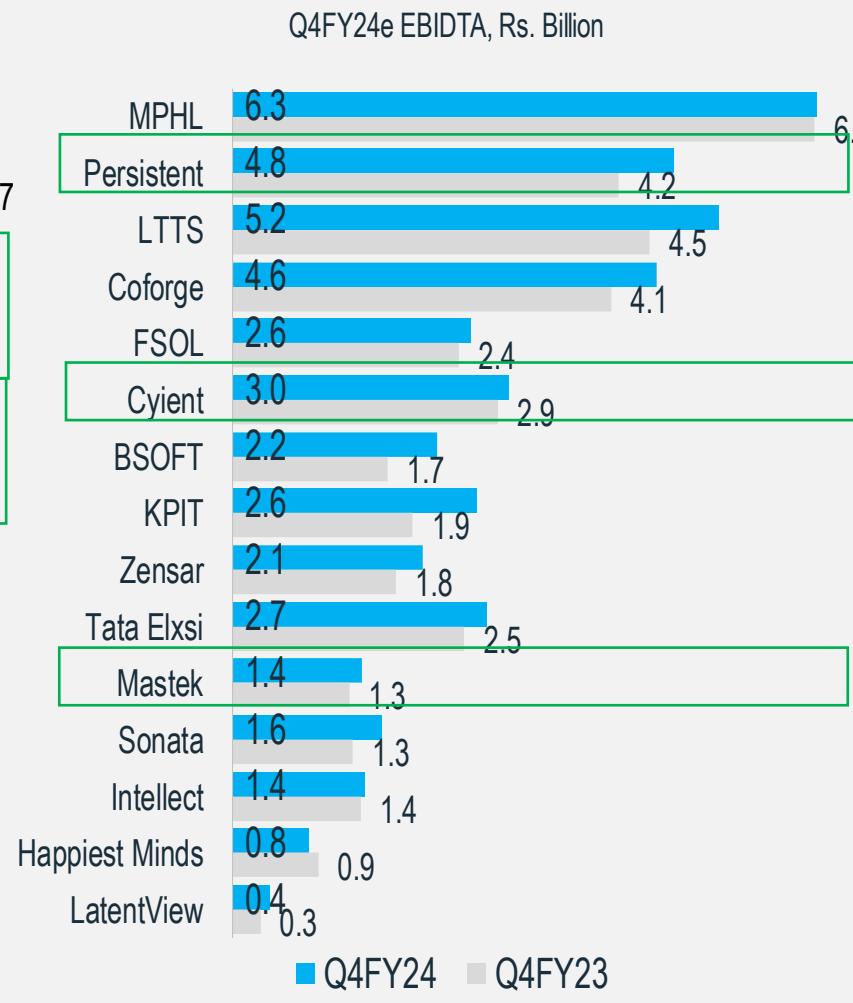

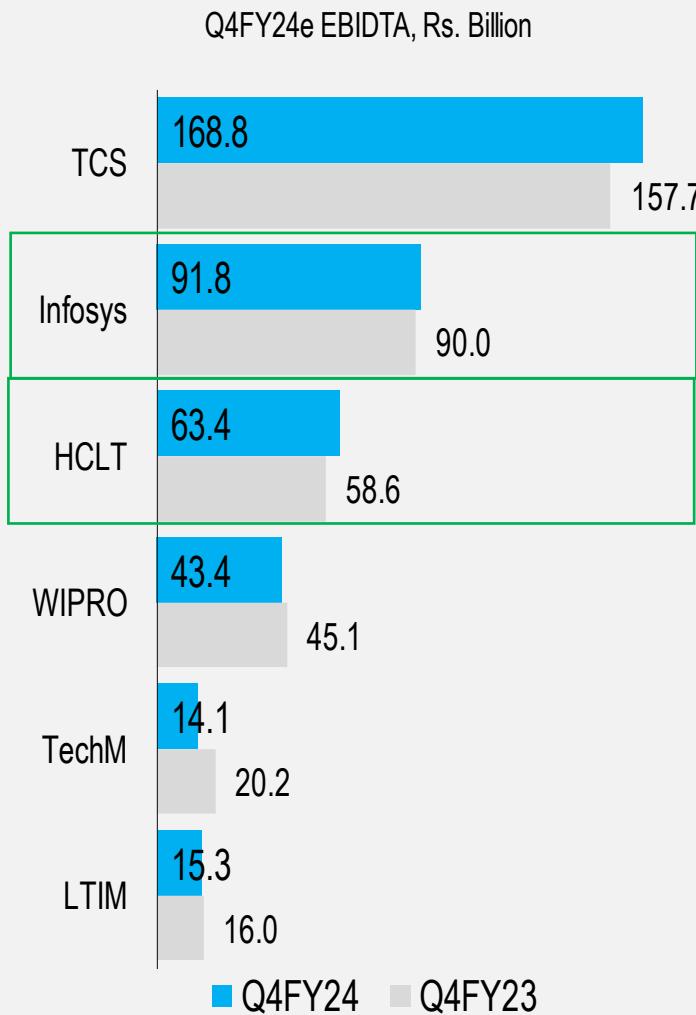

Companies below 80% have room to raise utilisation levels as growth returns while some of the larger companies like LTIM may see utilisation drop from current high levels

*TCS, HCLT, LTTS, Cyient and KPIT do not disclose utilisation; figures are estimates

Q4 industry EBITDA to largely remain steady q/q

LTIM, Wipro and TechM to see EBITDA declines; the rest all likely to expand

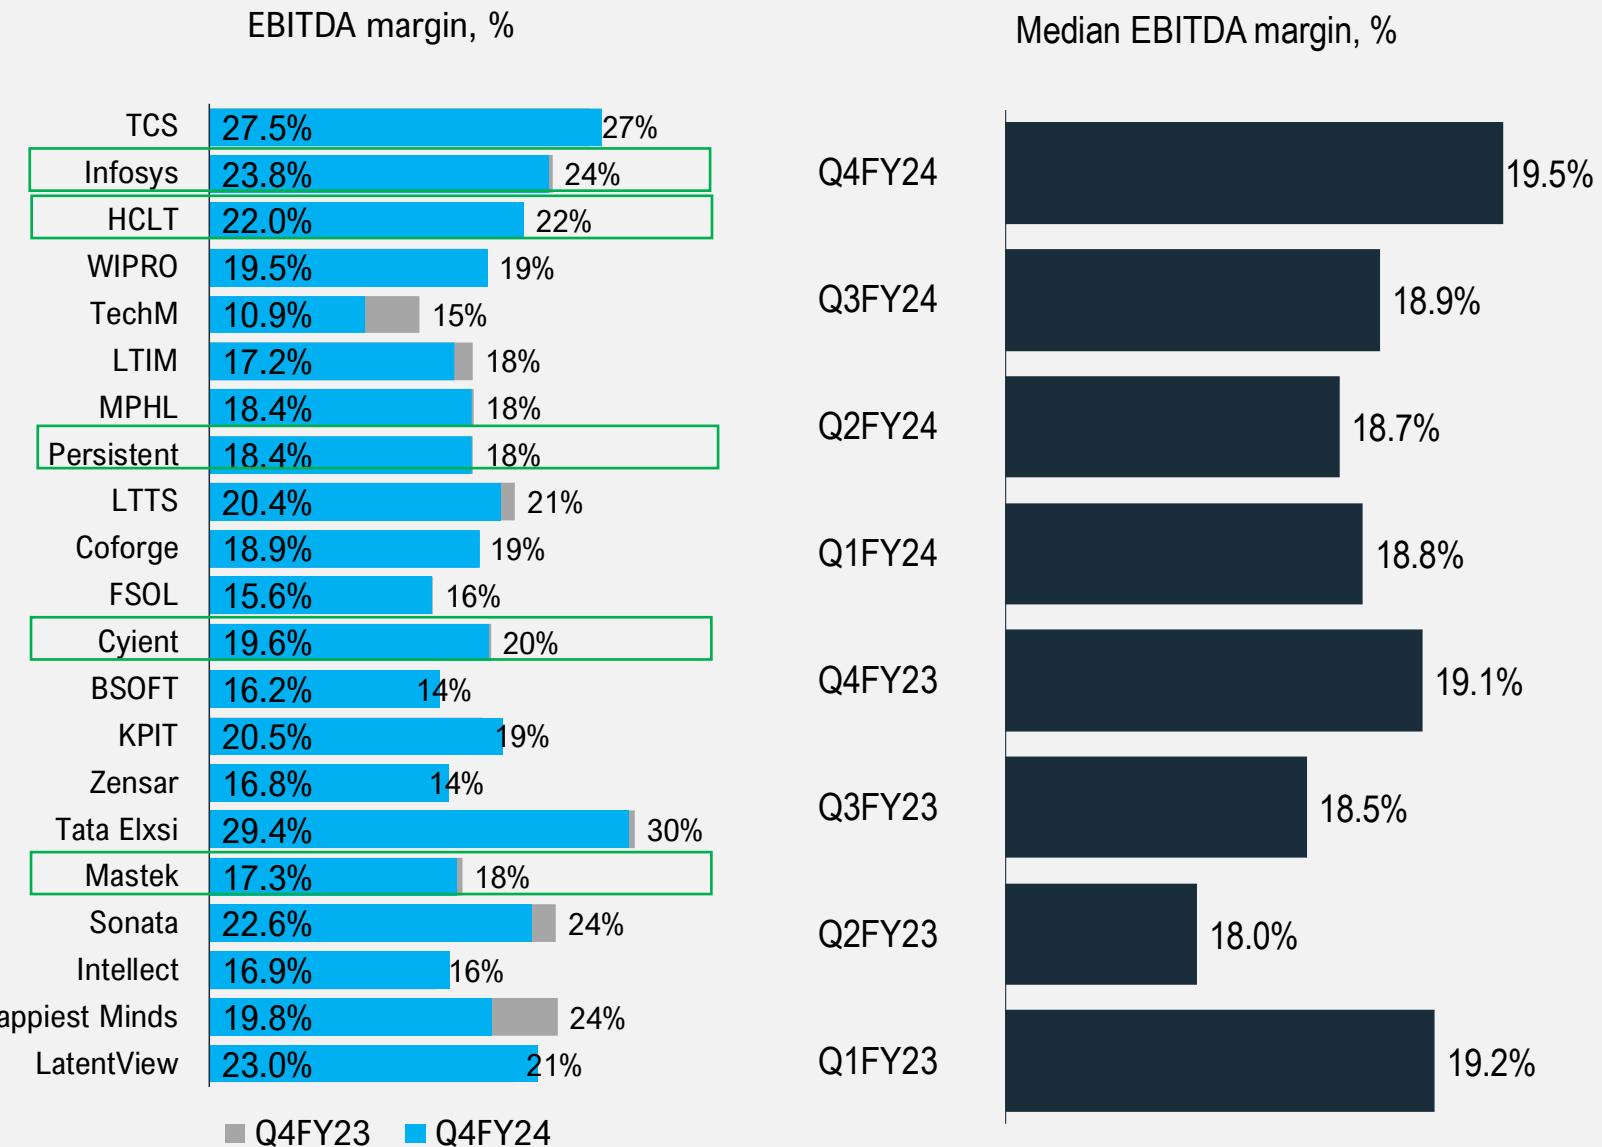

Median EBITDA margins at ~19.5%, expansion driven by Coforge, FSL and LatentView

Q4 exhibits seasonality, margins are usually higher. Q4 FY24 is no exception with margin expansion expectations driven by TCS, Wipro, TechM, PSYS, Coforge, FSL and LatentView

Most of the companies at last year's margins; exceptions: TechM, Sonata and Happiest. TechM is restructuring; hence, margin movement is not comparable. Sonata has invested in sales and large deals while Happiest is going through a patch of slow growth

Zensar is benefiting from one-time gains
Zensar's margin decline q/q is on account of lack of one-time gains it had in Q3 and Q2

* Intellect's margin above is non-GAAP adjusted for comparable evaluation. Sonata's IT Services' margin considered

PAT margin for most companies is 11-14%; largely stable q/q

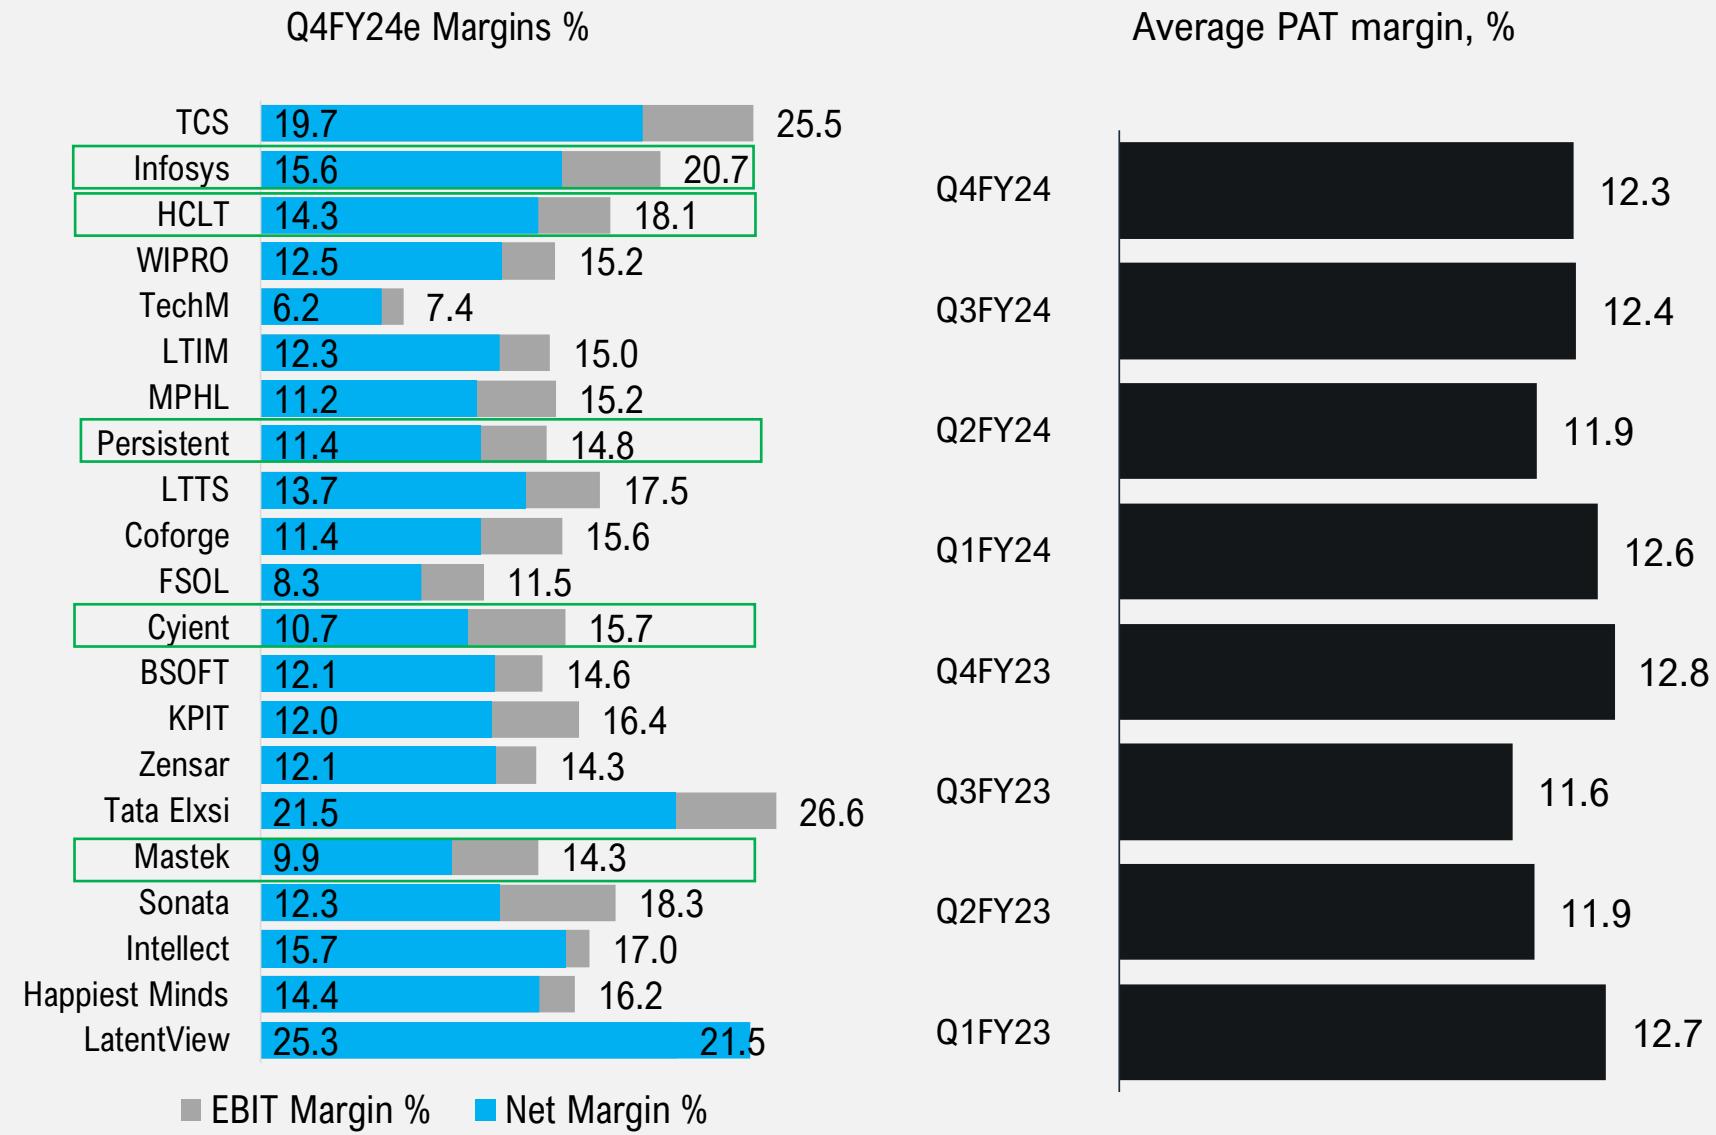

PAT margin for most: 11-13%

Industry profitability is now steady, 12-13% for the last four quarters. TechM, Cyient (higher amortization), Mastek and FSOL are slightly below industry profitability. TCS, Tata Elxsi and LatentView are at much higher profitability

TechM and Mastek are in special situations, expected to improve EBIT margins in FY25

Sonata made an exceptional payment of Rs1.75bn in Q3 due to outperformances of its recent acquisitions. This resulted in a loss for Q3

LatentView's net margins to normalize from Q1 FY25. The acquisition of Decision Point would lead to slightly lower other income and higher amortization cost, resulting in more normalized PAT margins

* Sonata's is Services margin

Delayed BFSI recovery, Deal wins steady

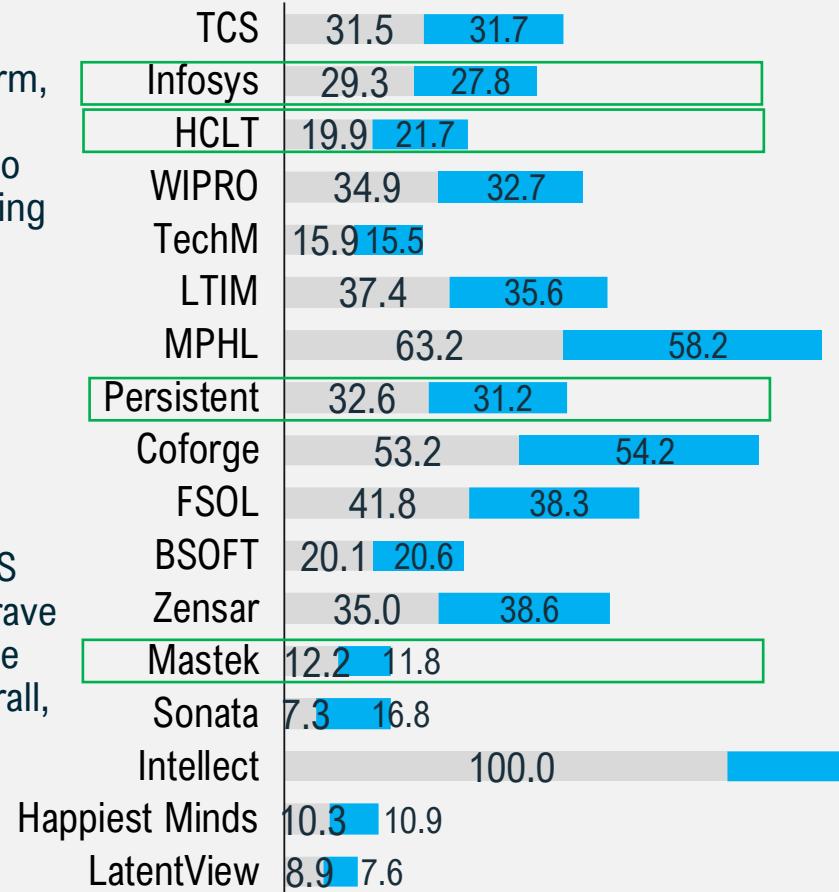

BFSI seeing deal wins, Sectoral scores also improving

TCS has seen deal activities improving in BFSI with three large deals (Aviva's UK arm, Europ Assistance and Central Bank) announced during the quarter. This is also one of the sectors where we are still seeing improvements in our S&P sectoral components score

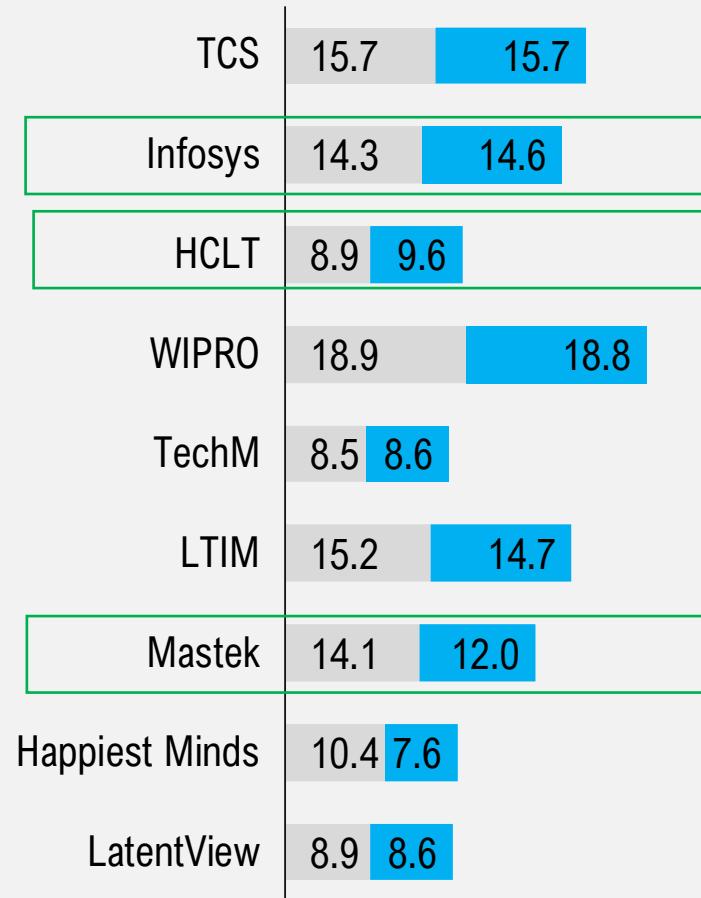

Retail CPG still weak

Deal flow in Retail CPG is steady with TCS (Co-operative group) and Infosys (Musgrave Group) announcing a few deals during the quarter. However, at the sector level overall, we don't see near-term improvements

Hi-tech sees some large deals from semi-con, Manufacturing steady

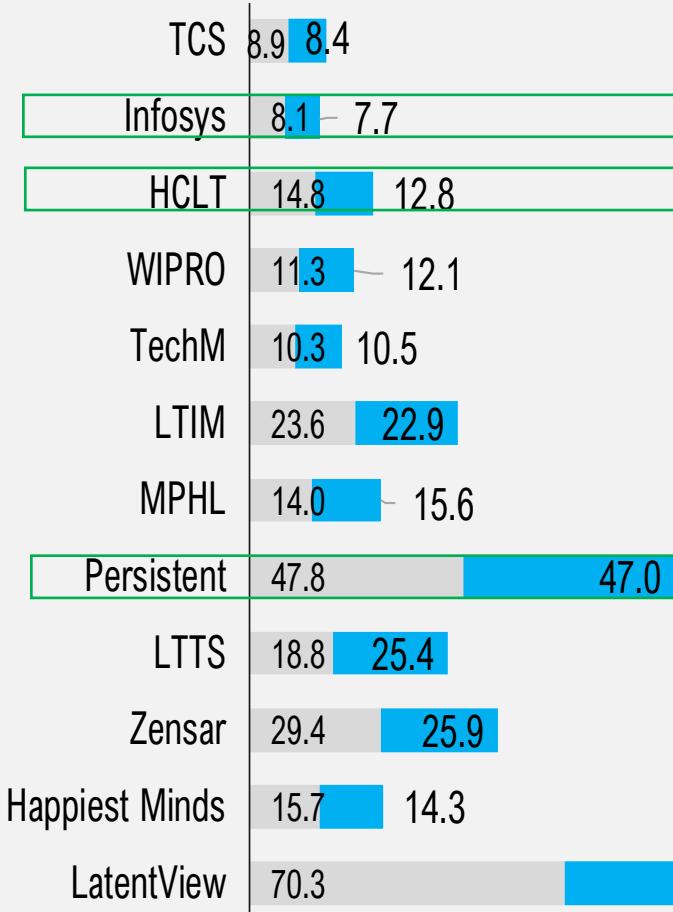

Hi-tech has seen a couple of deals awarded to Indian IT. TCS has won a Multiyear deal from the Enento group to transform its IT applications, cloud and digital workplace. HCLT and Wipro signed an Intel-foundry deal to accelerate chip design and innovation. And LTTS from the Maharashtra State Cyber Department to develop inter-connected smart cities.

Telecoms is steady compared to the last quarter. No positives or negatives seen during the year

Infosys, TechM, LTIM and Zensar have seen a strong increase in revenue from manufacturing despite global challenges.

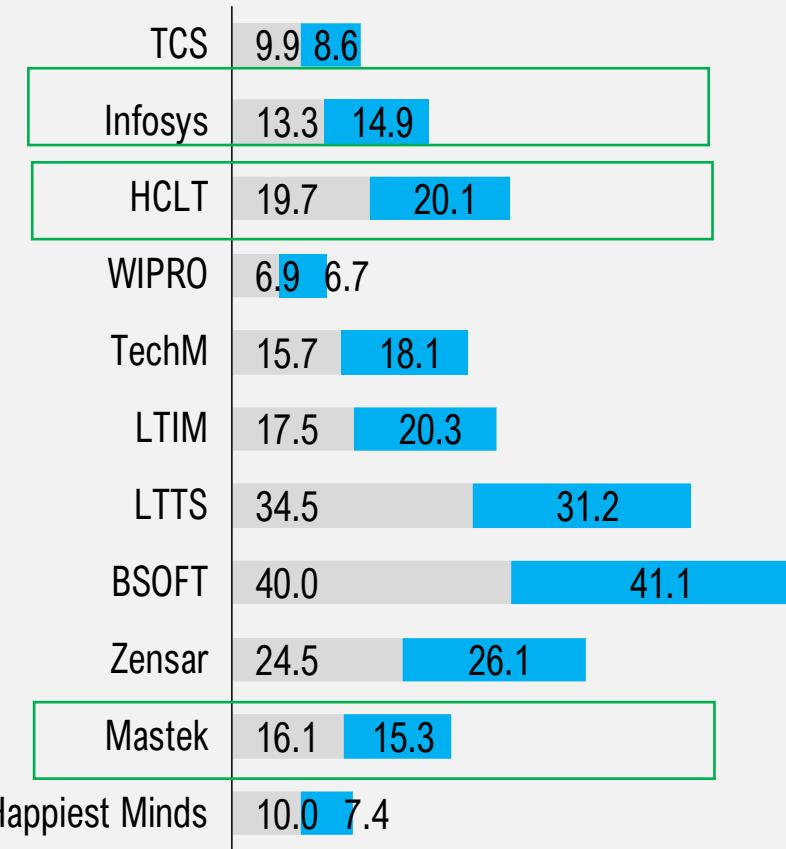

BSOFT leads the pack with a >40% revenue share

US seeing increase in revenue share, Europe steady

*Mastek's Europe contribution includes the Mid-East for uniformity in comparison

TCV to largely remain steady q/q, except TCS

Infosys and Zensar shine in TCV growth

These two companies have seen TCV growing much faster in FY24, leading to expectation so better growth in FY25.

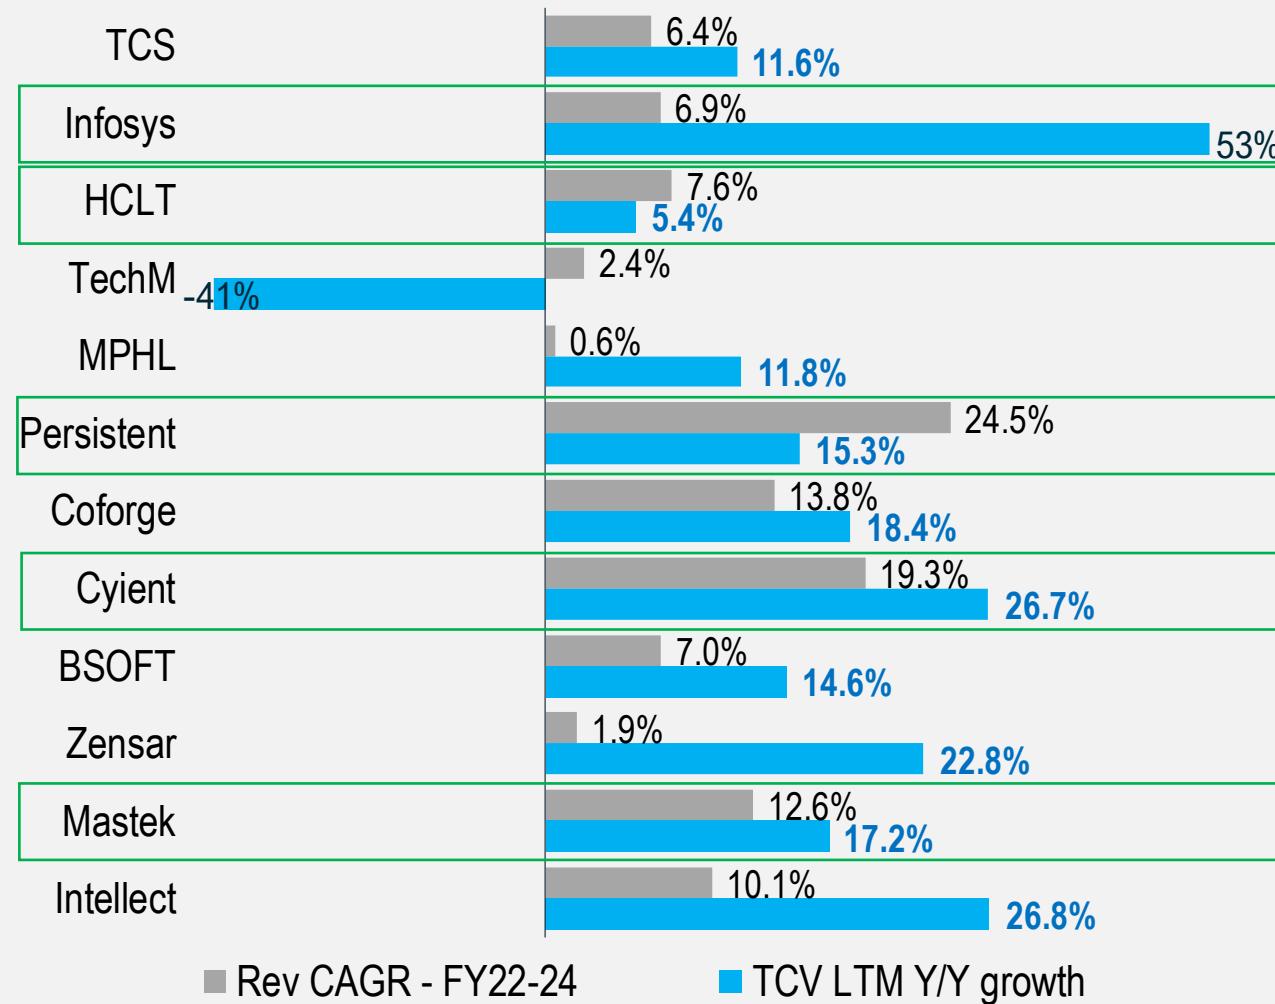

Intellect faced a large contract termination in FY24

Intellect faced termination of GeM which has resulted into weaker revenue growth in FY24/25 compared to the TCV.

Median TCV growth was 16%, reflecting strong underlying demand

Clients continued to award contracts last year despite uncertainties; hence, the case for FY25 growth acceleration as business environment improves.

TechM, which has high exposure to the telecom vertical, was the only company witnessing decline in TCV (They report net new deal wins). The company is under restructuring and is likely to bounce back in Q4.

Meaningful revision in Target Prices

- PSYS: We have revised up our target price
 - While Q4 is likely to be steady, the company's resilience in difficult environment continues, building on hopes of faster growth in FY25.
 - Our revised multiple (38x FY26 EPS) reflects its relative outperformance to the industry.
- Sonata: We have revised up our target price
 - Sustained performance over the last few quarters is resulting into higher multiple although earnings revision is not meaningful.
 - The target multiple for IT services is revised to 34x FY26, in-line with the rest of high growth sector components.

Valuation Metrics and Target Revision

Meaningful revision in Target Prices

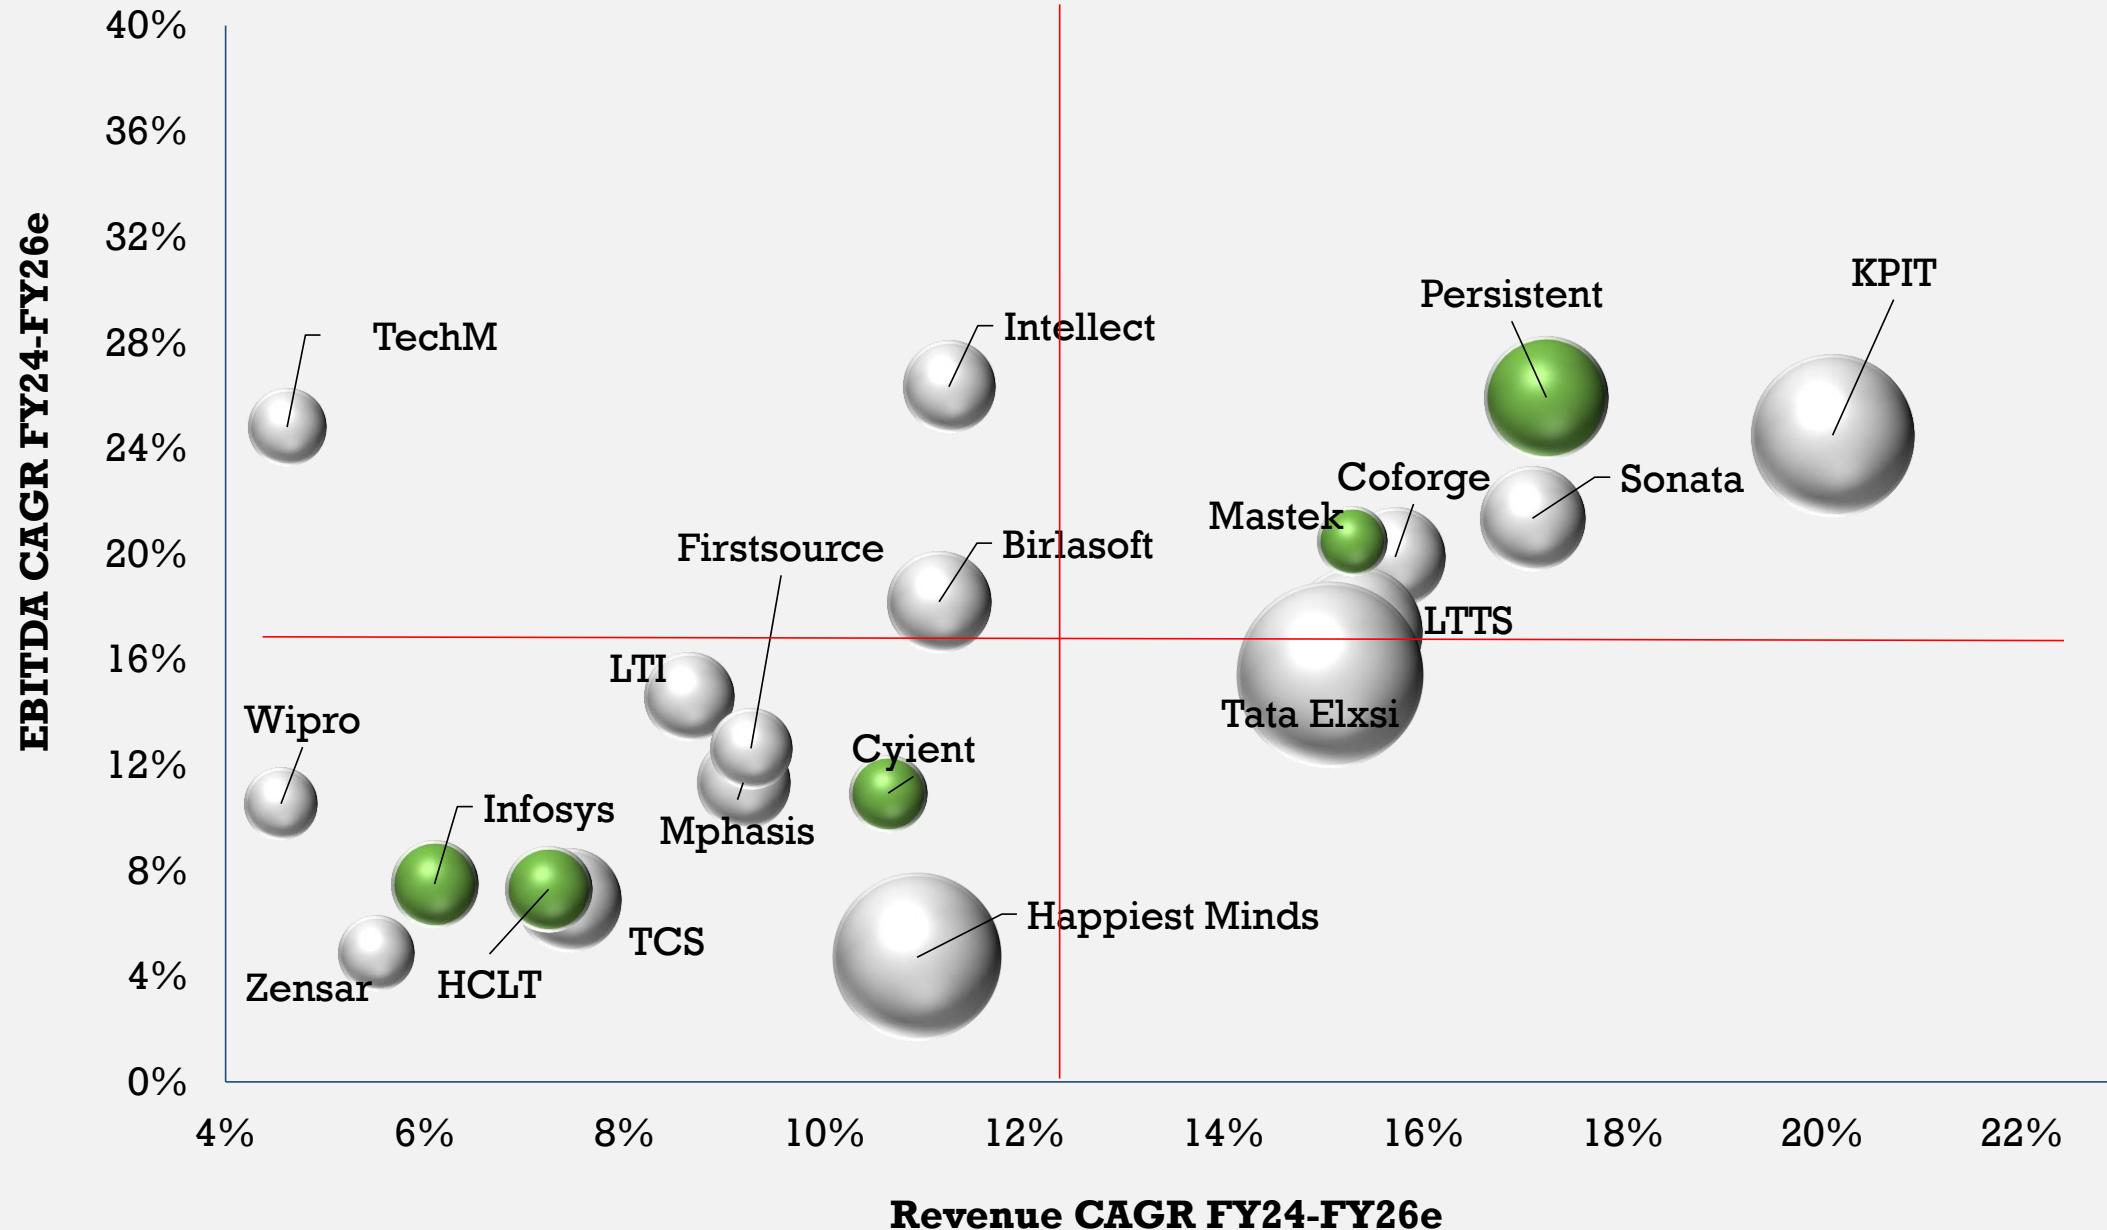

- INDA: We have revised up our target price
 - The earnings estimates have moved up by ~3% as the company absorbs the loss of GeM contract without any decline in revenues in Q4.
 - Margins and Working capital are likely to improve as it moves away from the GeM business.
 - Competitive intensity has improved remarkably, leading to better export growth outlook on a relative basis.
 - Our revised multiple (25x FY26 EPS) reflects the above.

Top picks are blend of growth and value

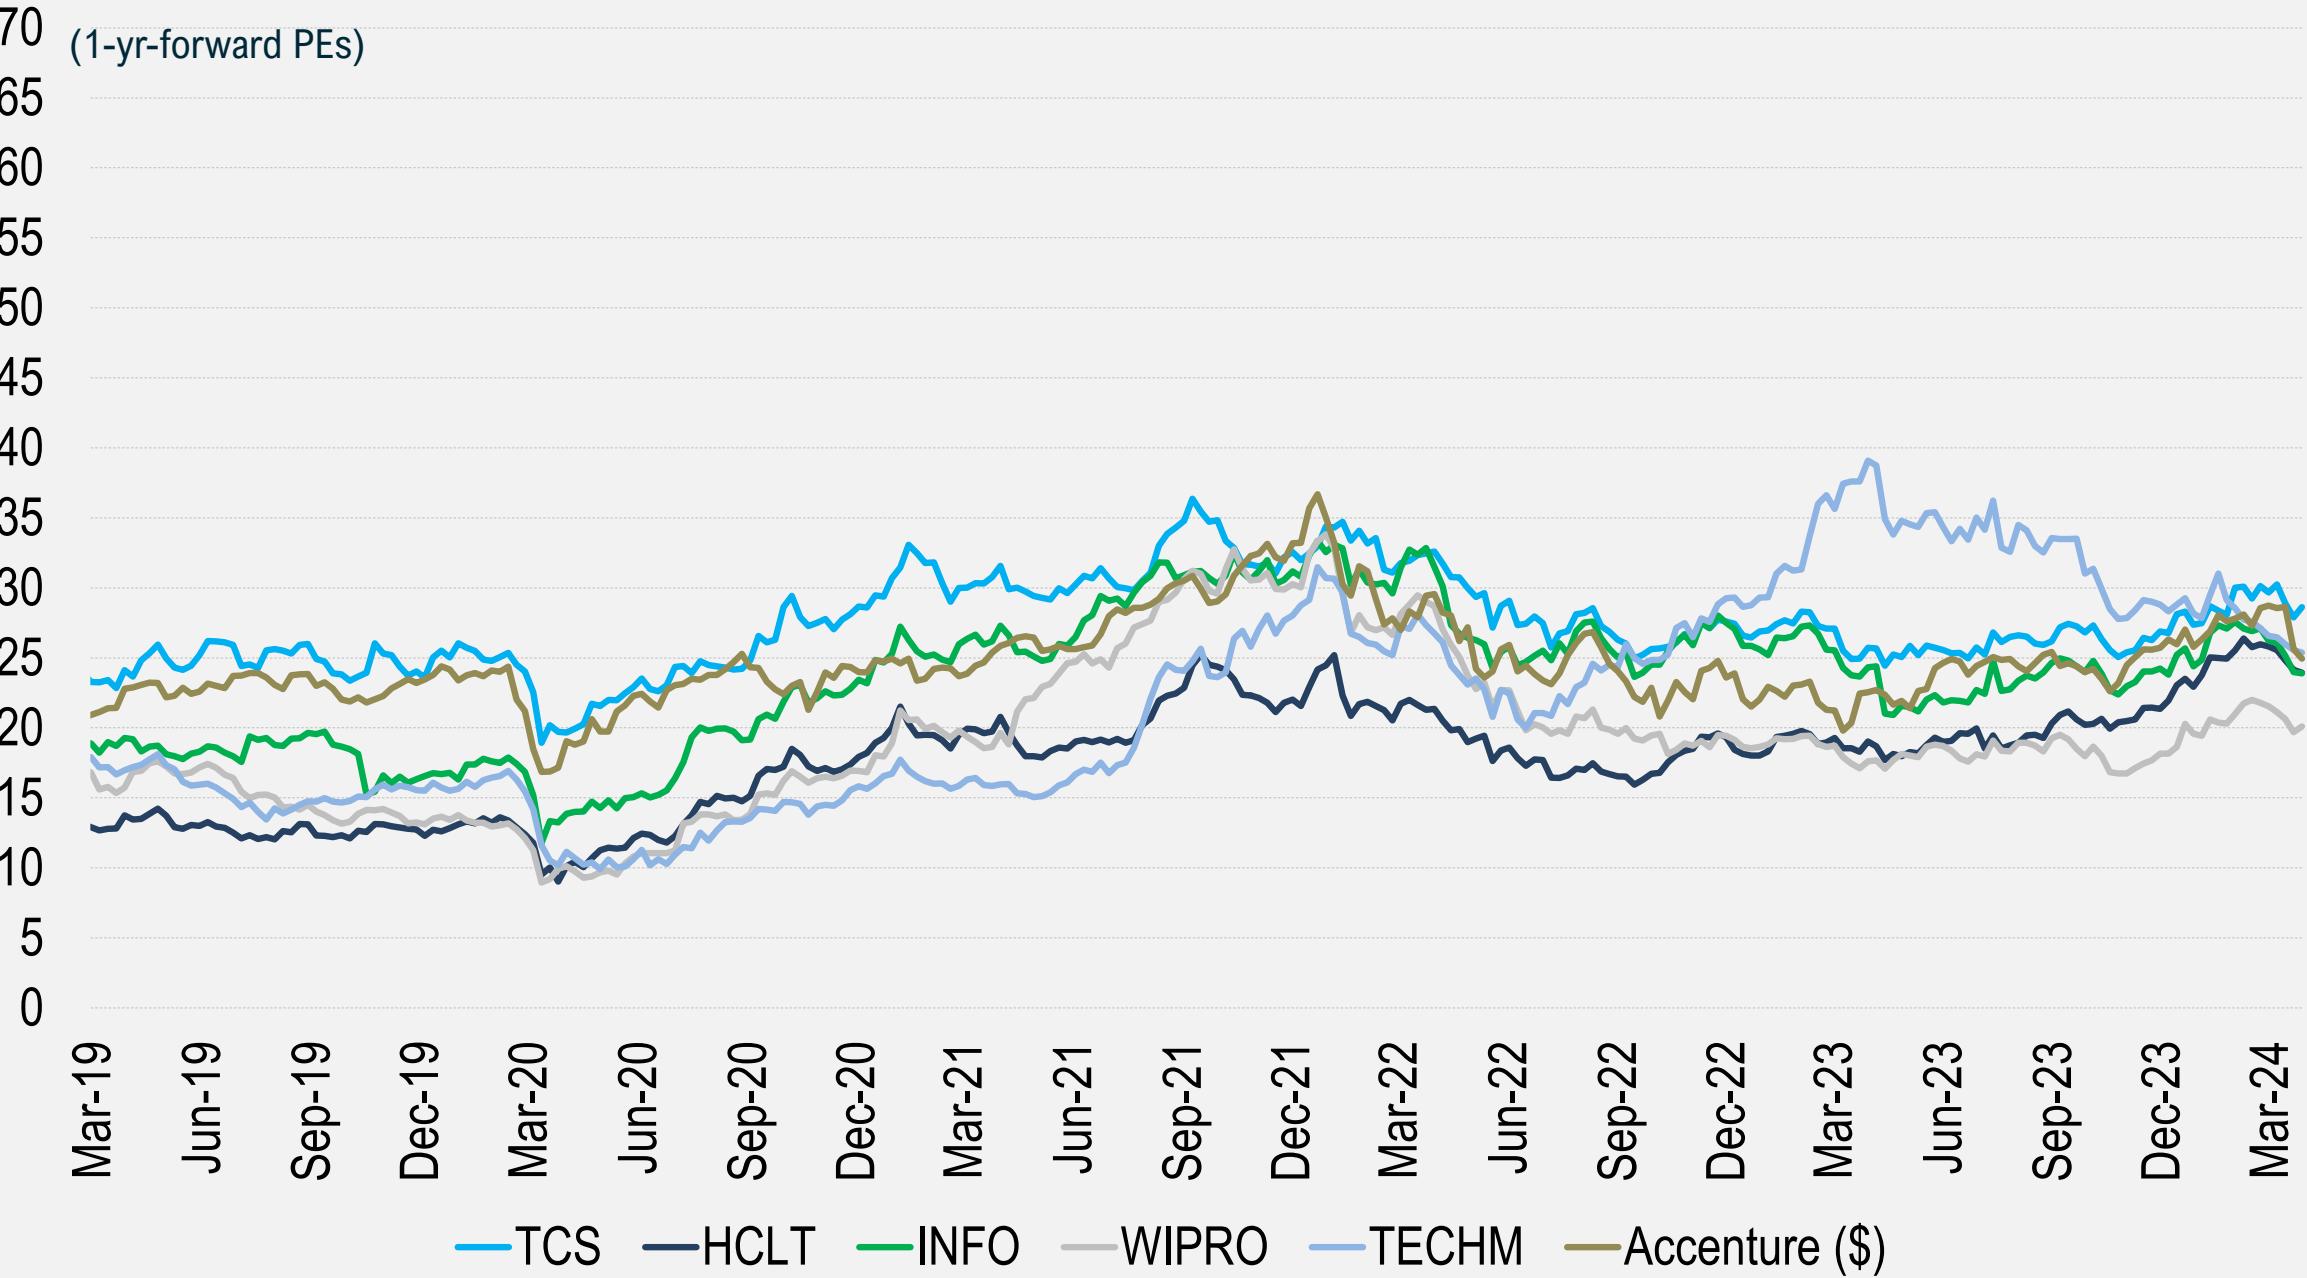

Note: LatentView CAGR appears lower due to change in tax rate; Birlasoft recurring earnings CAGR considered

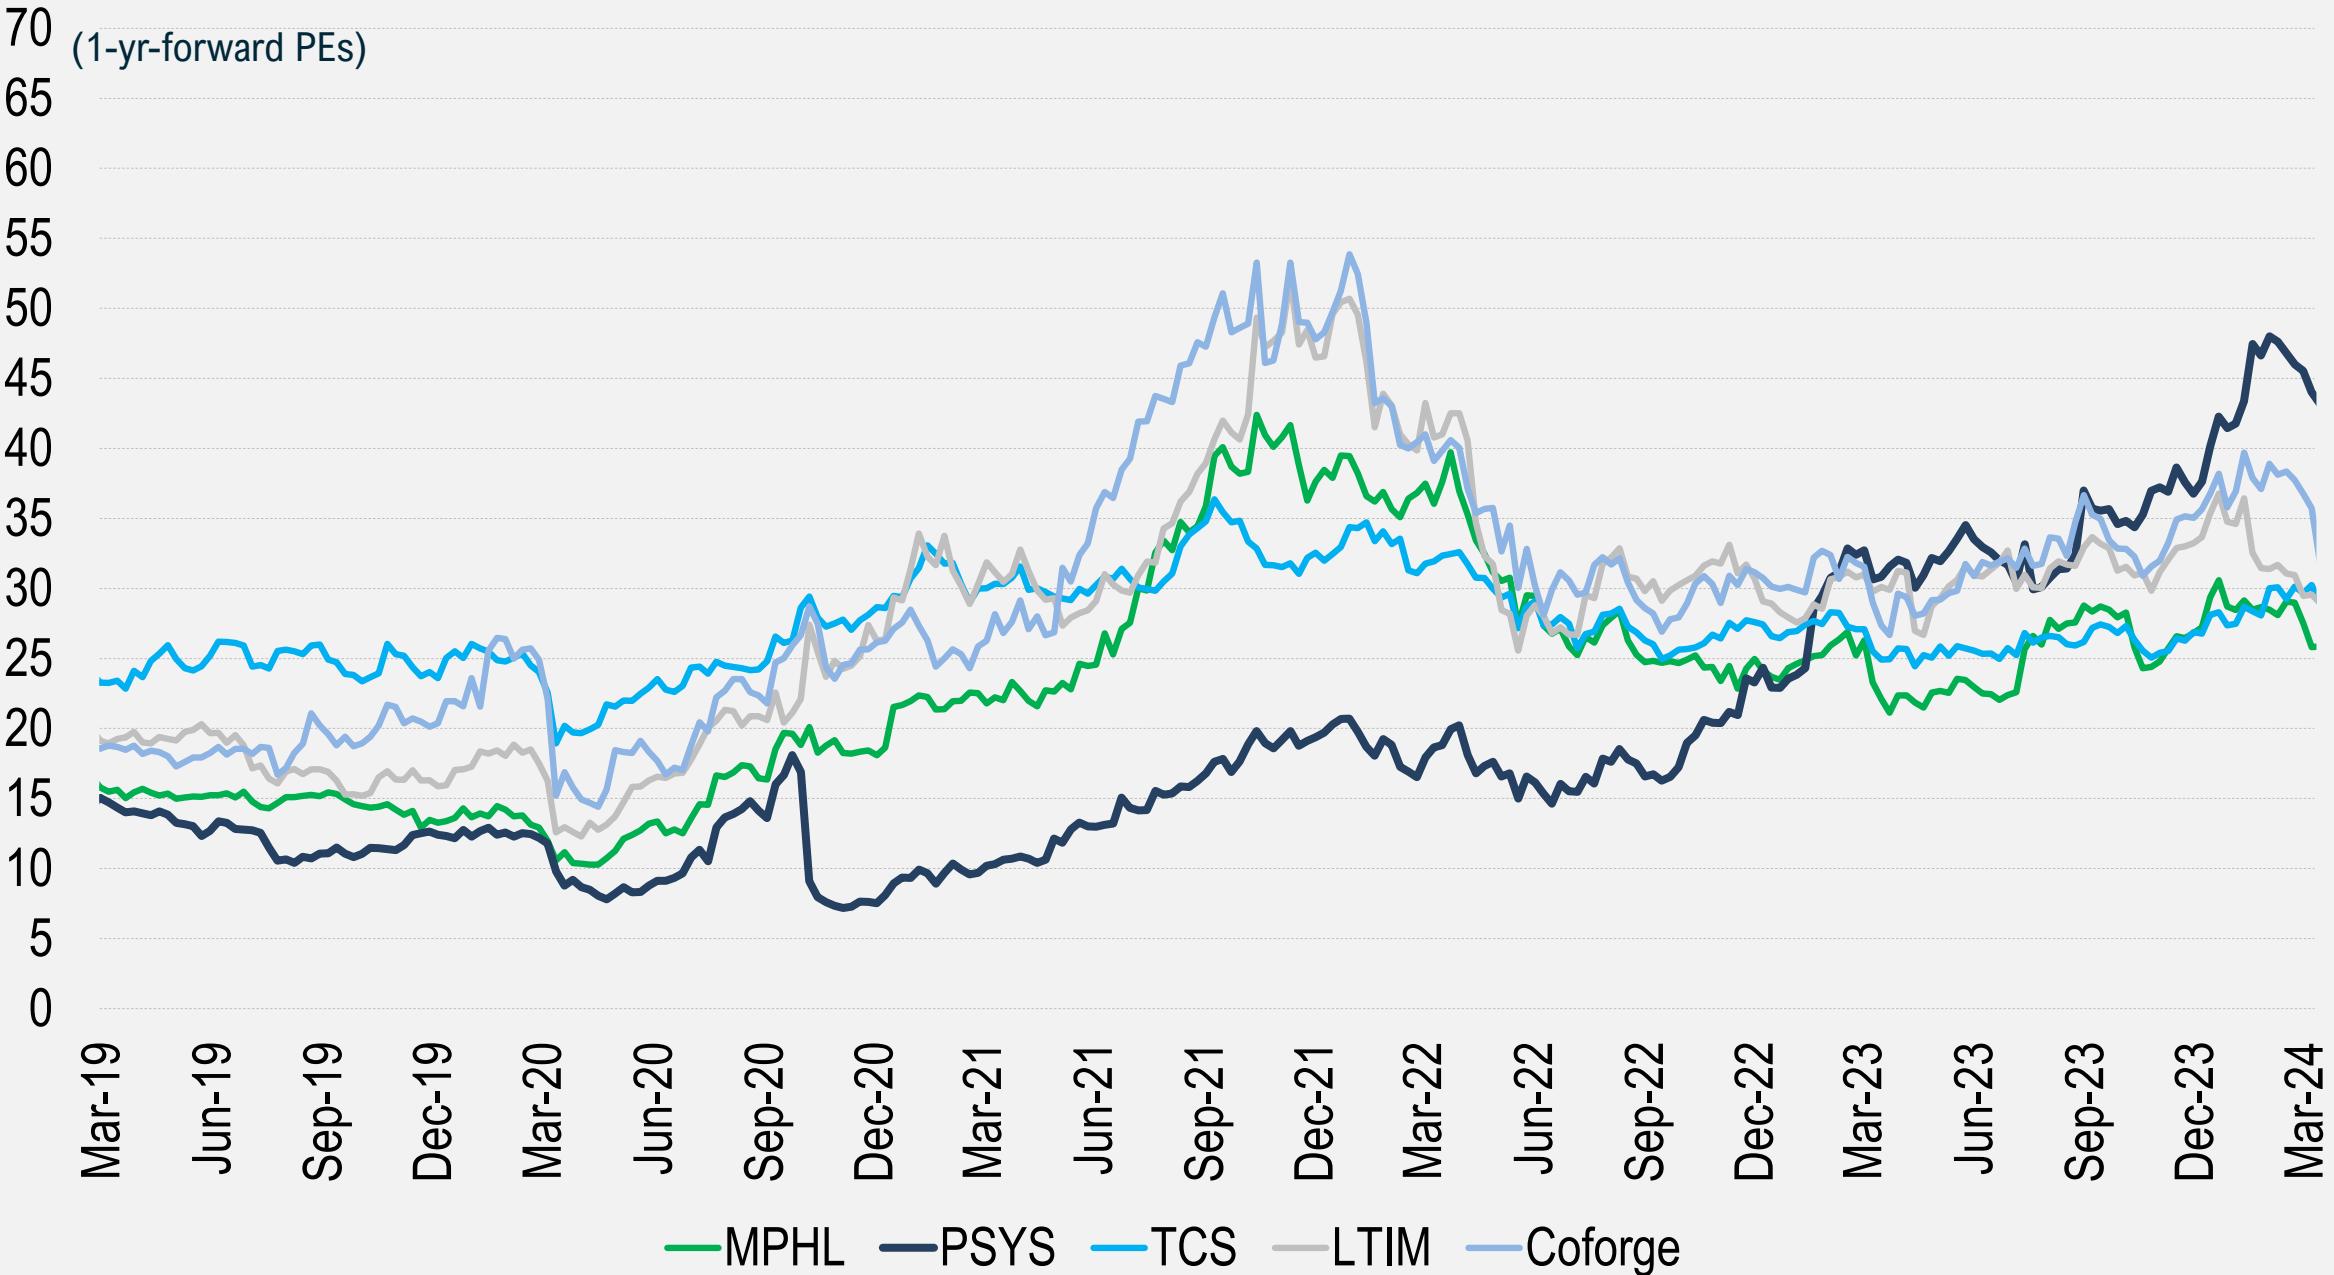

Top picks are a mix of value and growth

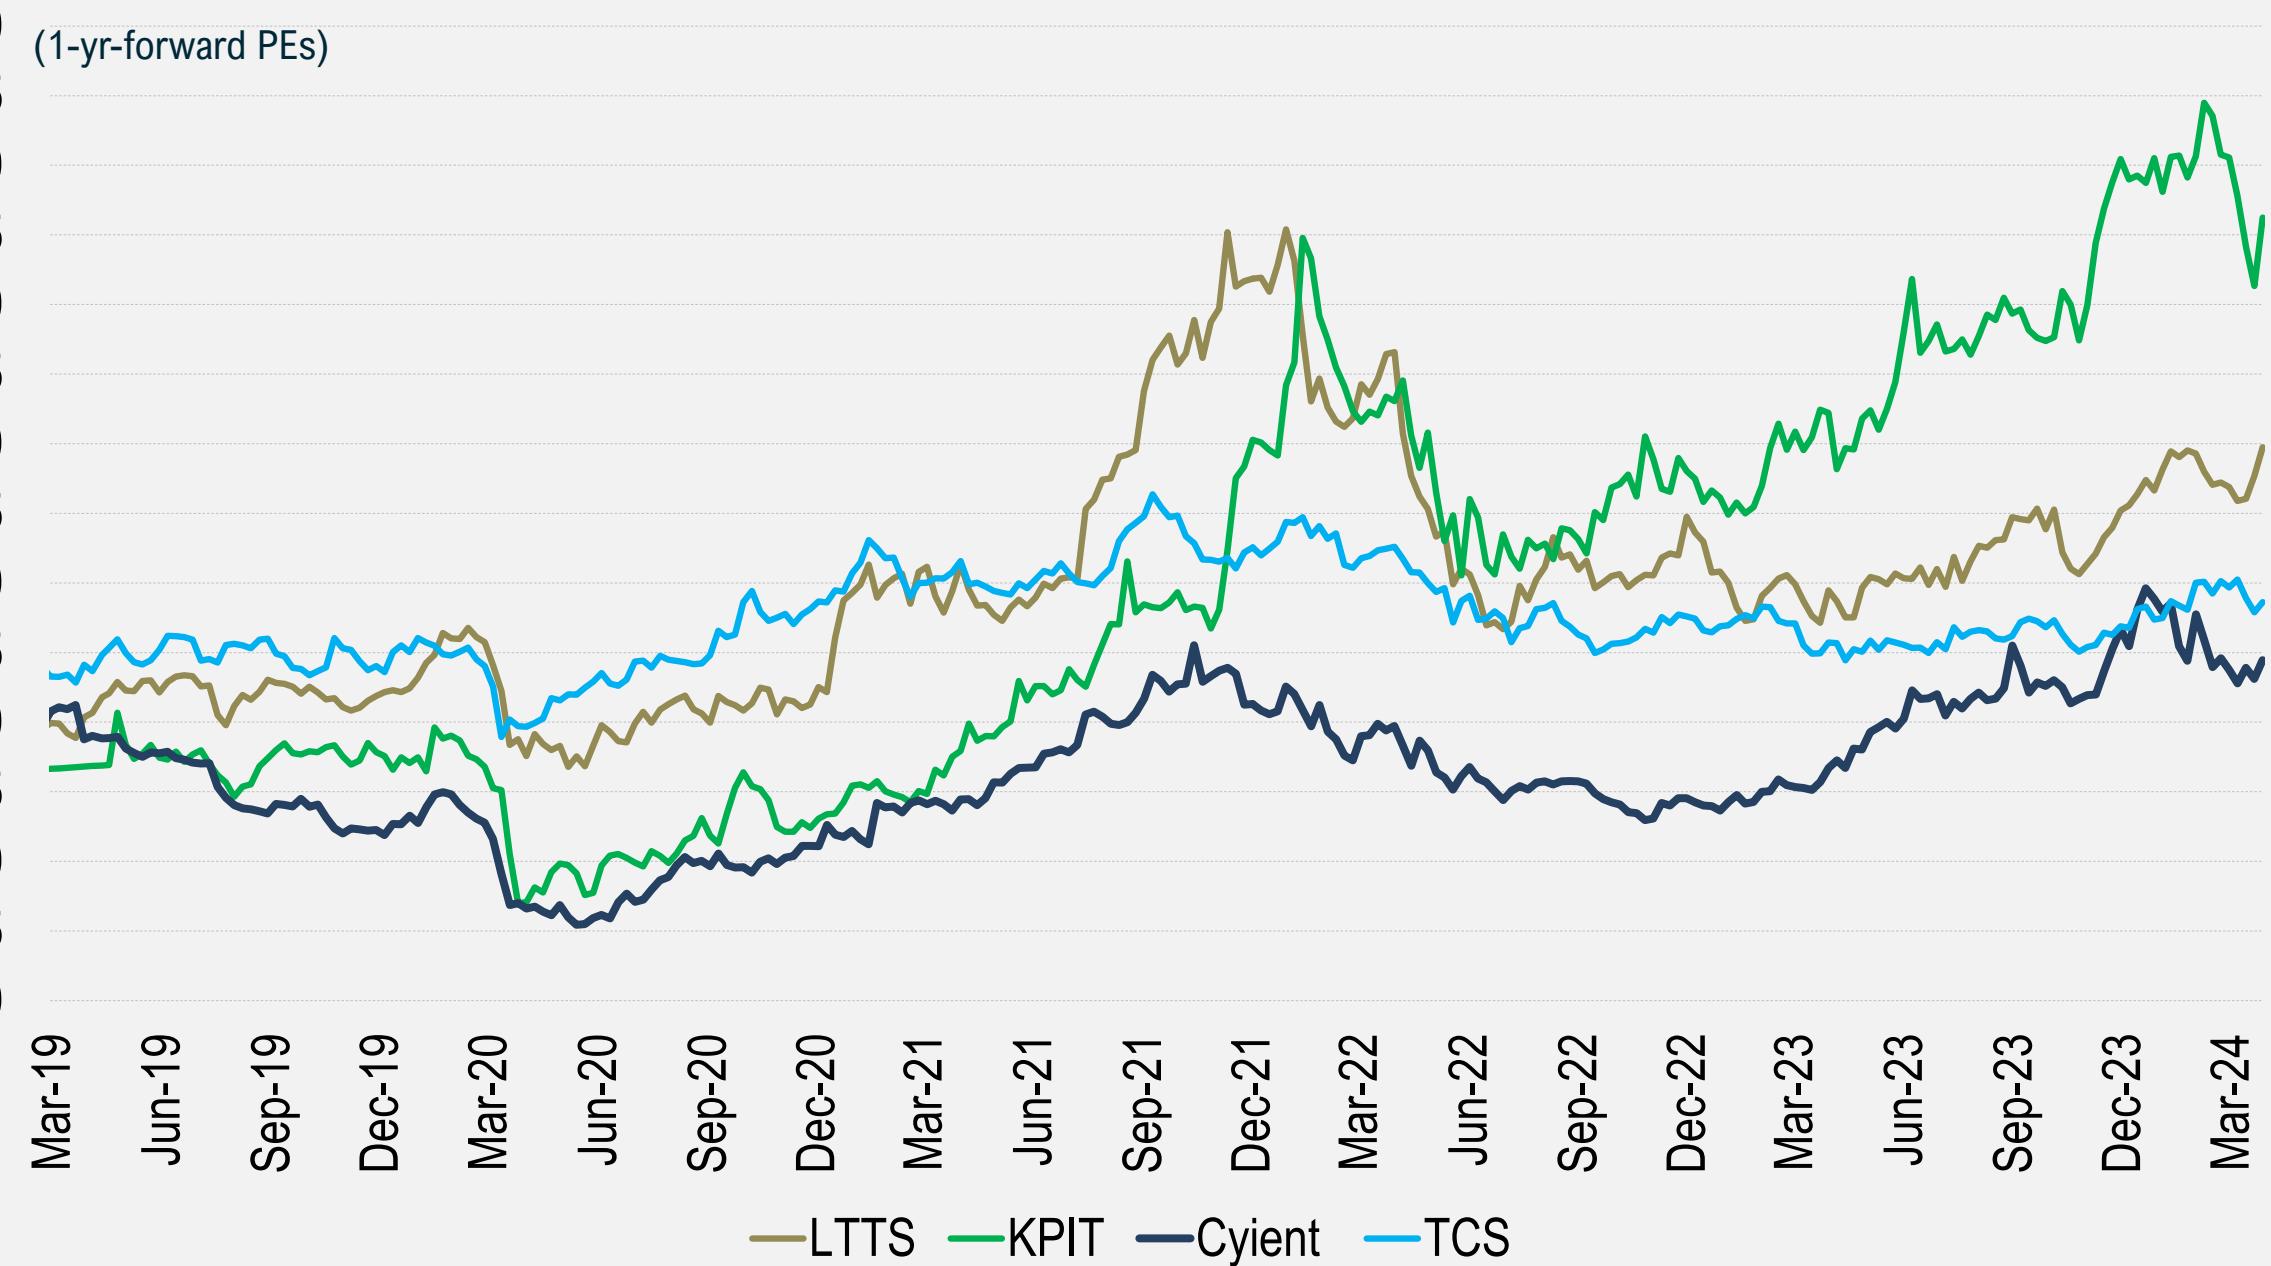

PE multiples are steady over the last few years, witnessed some correction in March

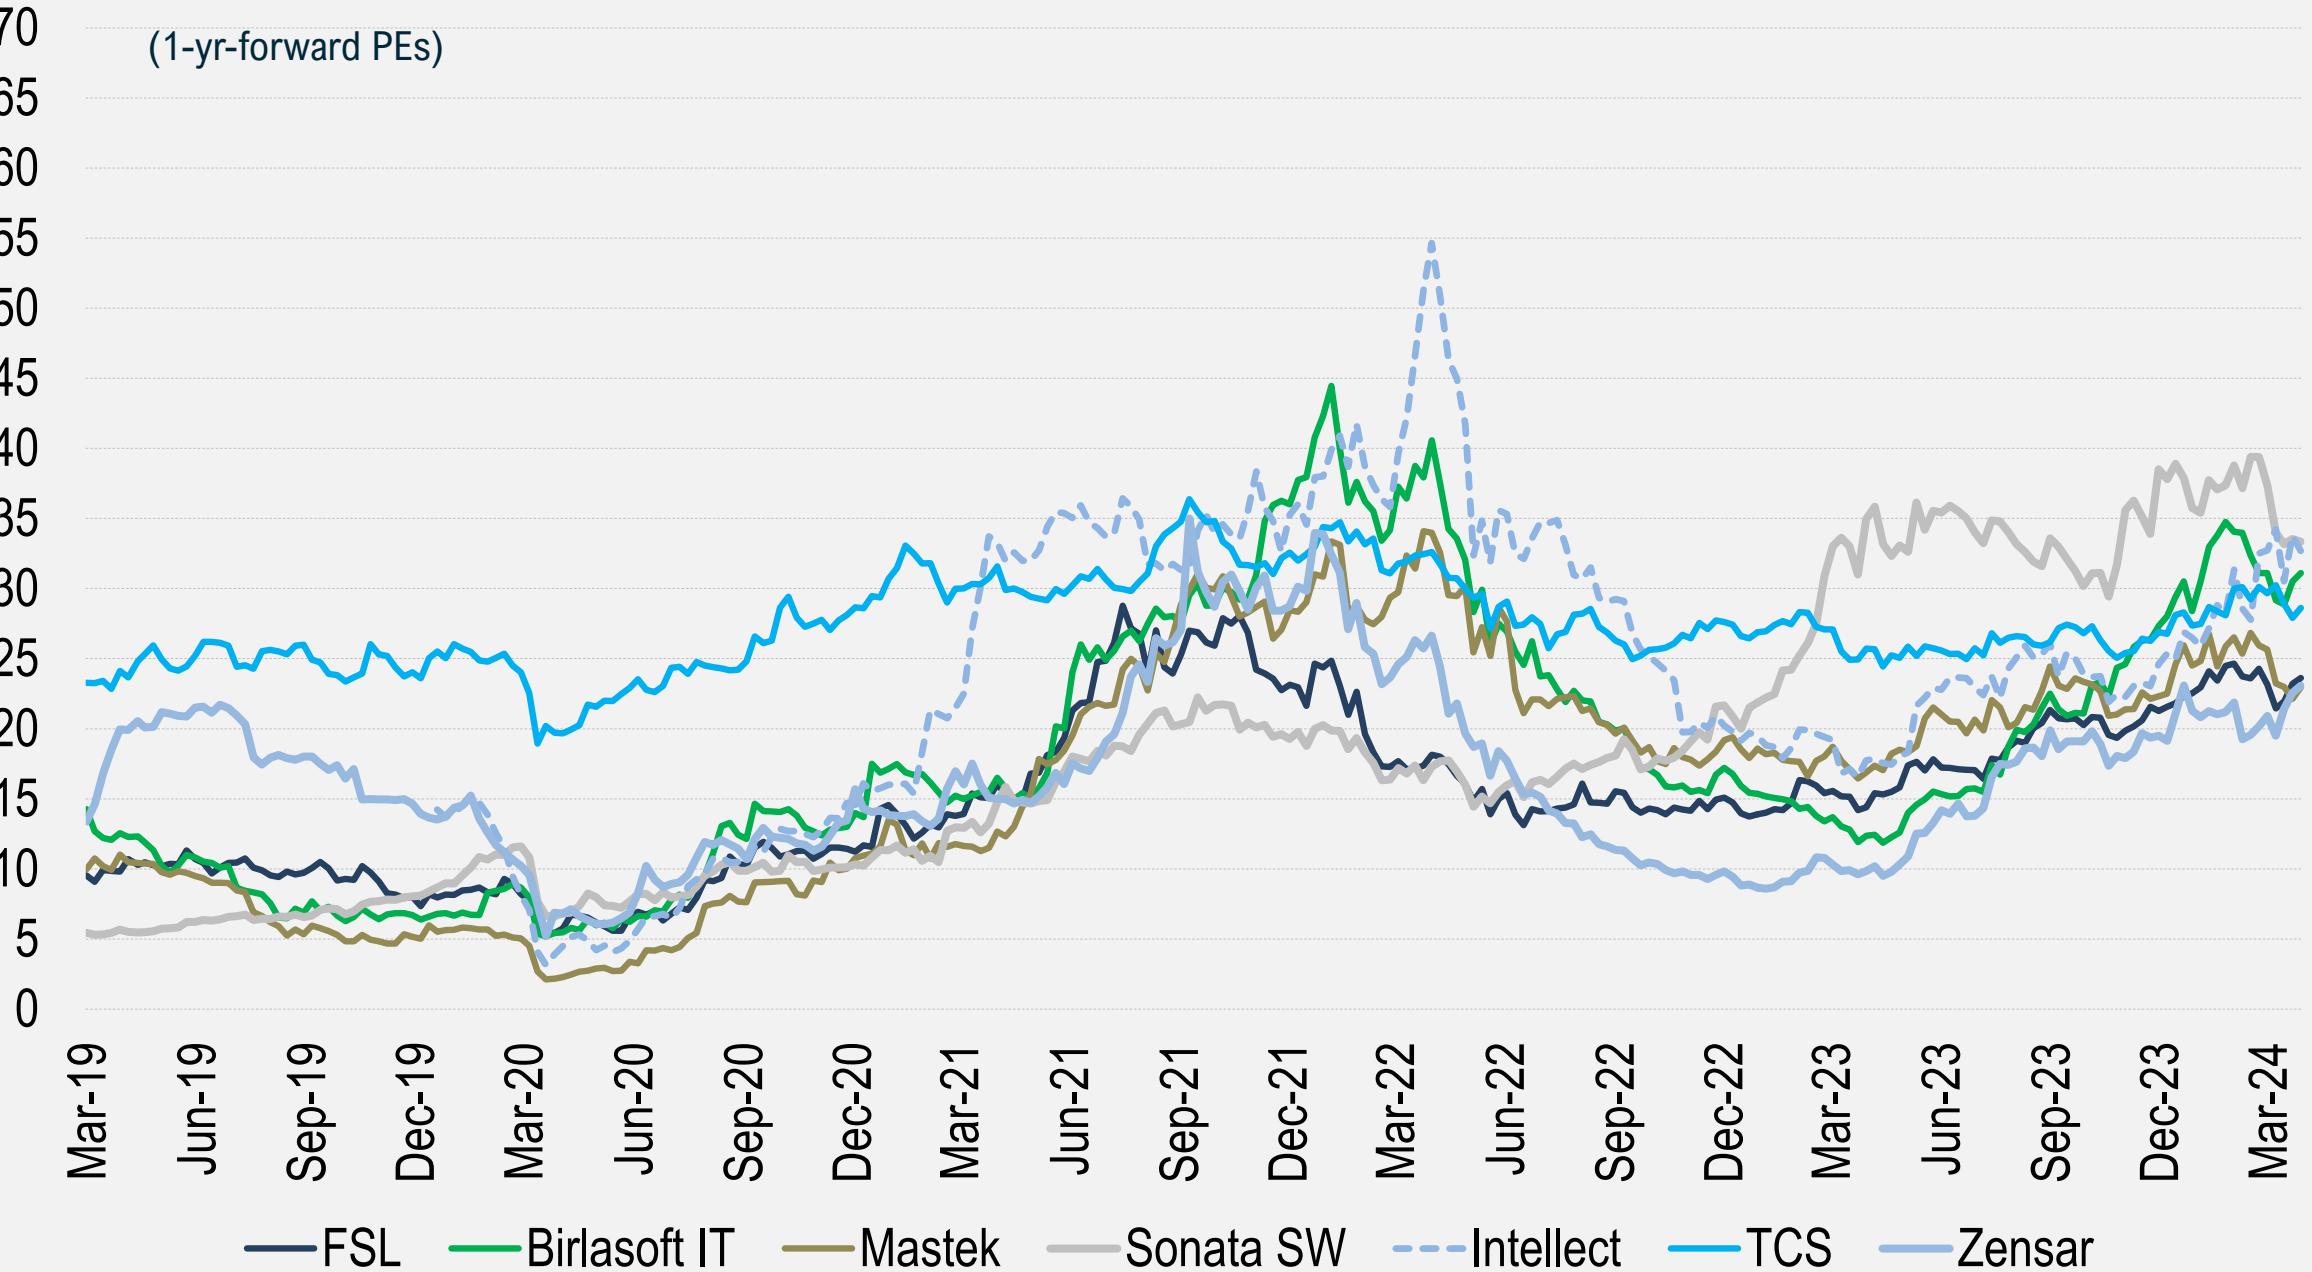

PSYS offers some opportunity owing to its growth profile

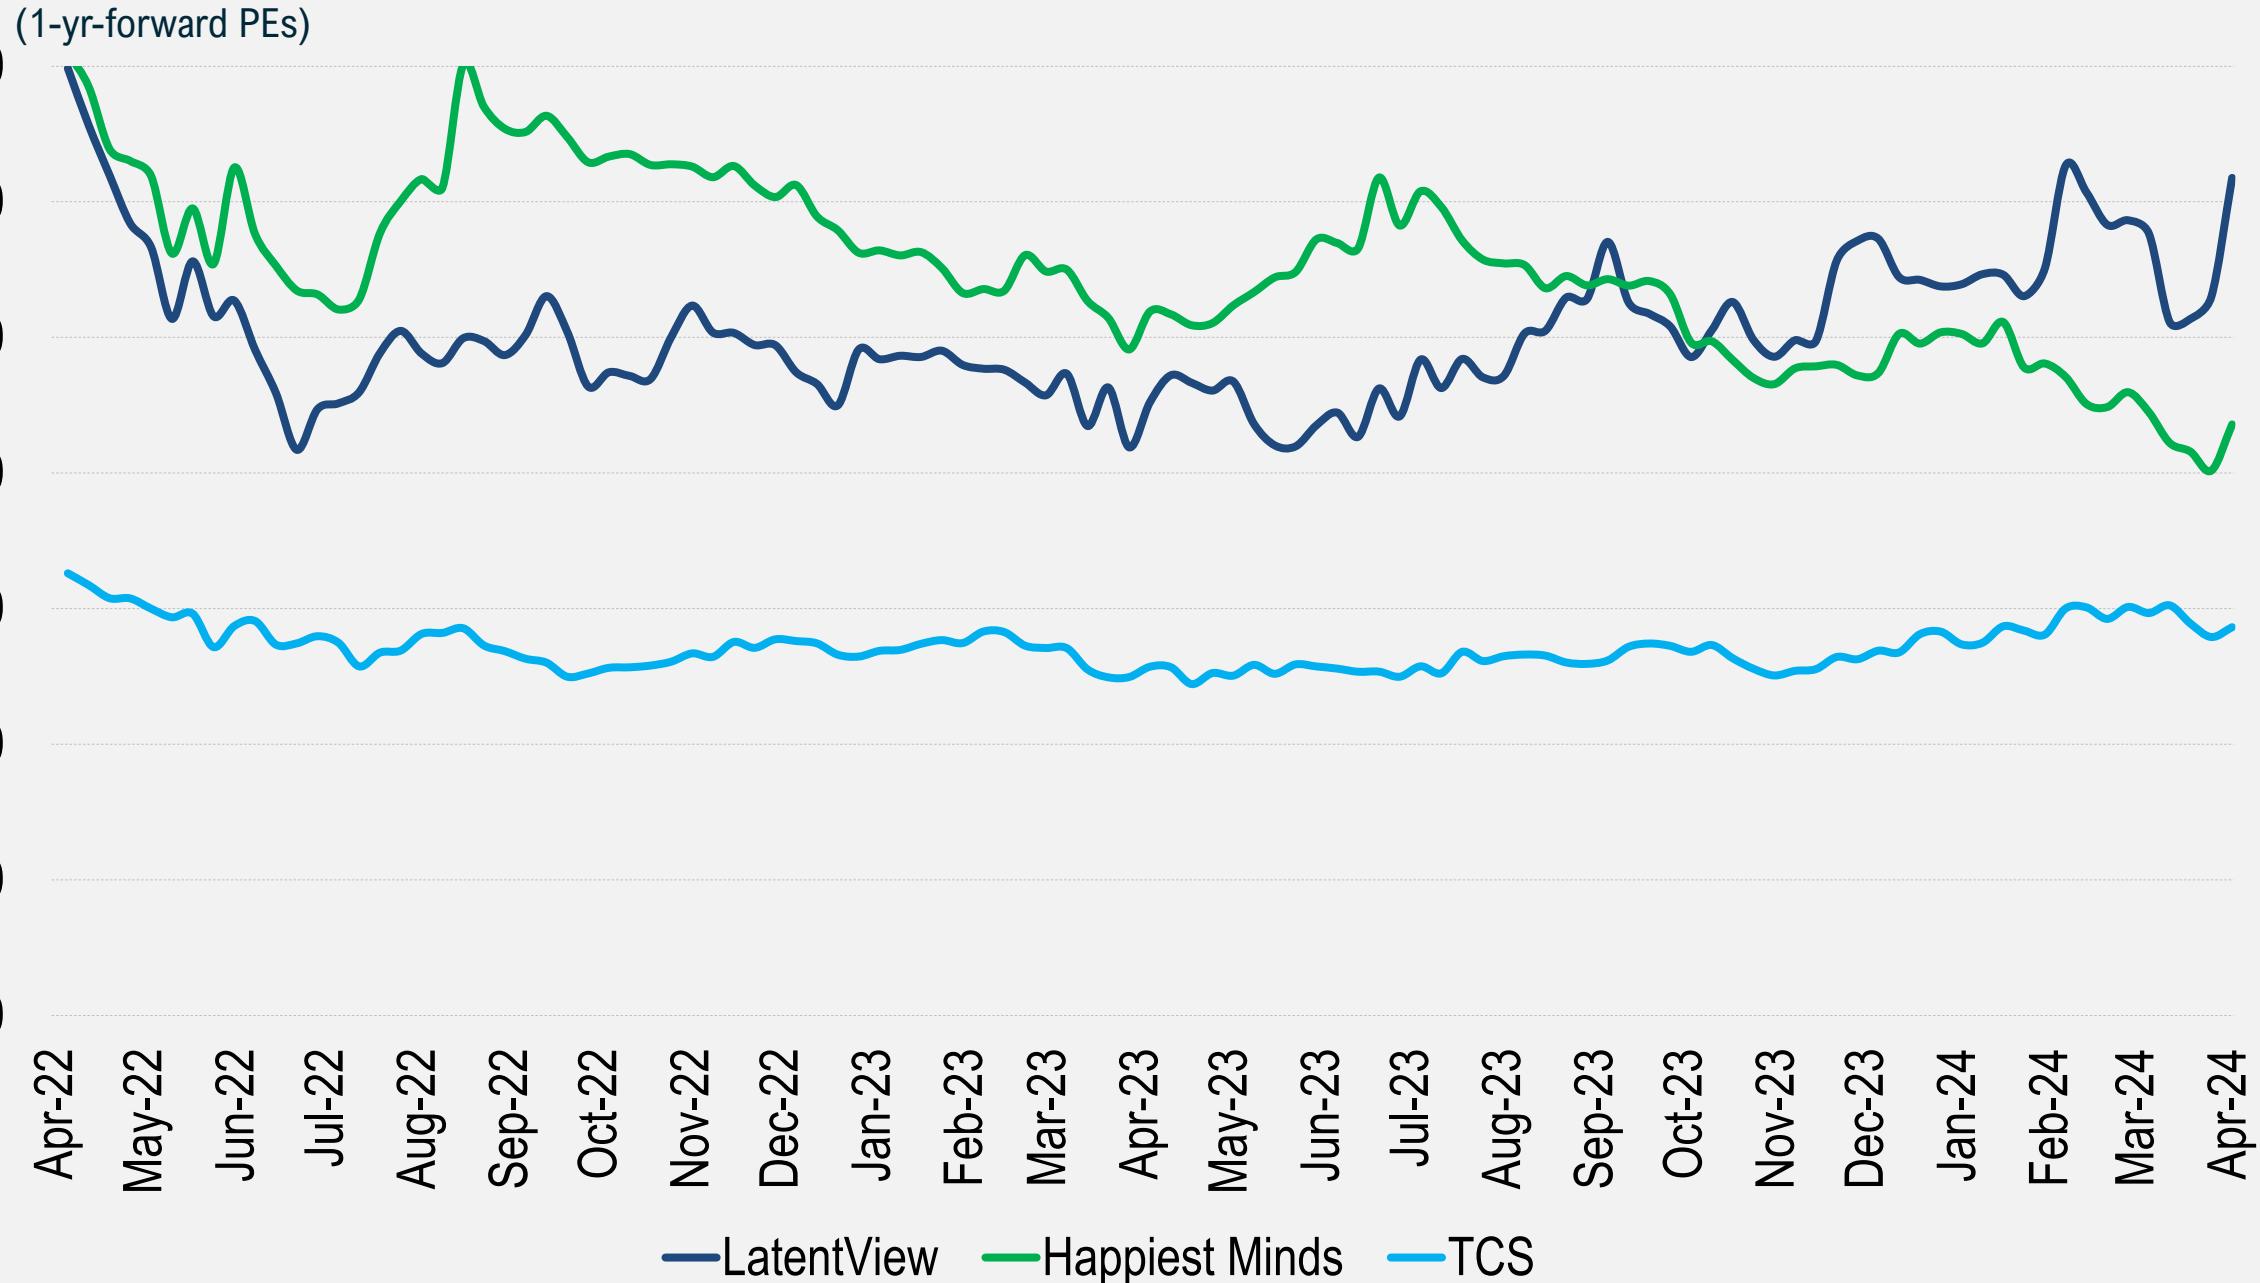

Cyient undervalued compared to peers, needs to accelerate growth

Mastek appears undervalued given our growth expectations

LatentView retaining its growth premium over Happiest Minds
